

Context	Where the word is found; within a specific sentence within a specific text.
Meaning	The definition of a word in a specific setting
Form	The building blocks of the word, including prefixes, affixes and suffixes
Use	How the word is 'stretched' and manipulated to fit its particular context
Collocation	Word combinations ; the way in which words co-exist and, through time and custom, seem normal and acceptable
Phonemes	The individual sounds found within the word.
Word stress	The phonemes in the word that are 'punched' more than the others.
Lexical chunk/phrase	Groups of words which, together, hold specific meaning.
Antonyms	Pairs of words which hold the opposite meaning.
Synonyms	Words which mean the same thing and which can be interchanged.
Near-synonyms	Words which hold similar meanings but which are not identical.
High frequency words	Words which are used a lot and are common. Often these words are the 'classification' or 'super ordinate' word.

Hyponymy	The relationship or hierarchy among groups of words which hold meaning
Idiom	A common expression, or fixed metaphor, which holds specific meaning
Example : “ To cry with abandon”	The man wept in sorrow as he watched his beloved sail away into the sunset.
Verb + preposition + noun	Wept in sorrow
® ® Wept in sorrow	Wept in sorrow /w/ /a:/
Wept in sorrow vs laugh with abandon	Weep vs cry; weep vs wail
‘cry’ is one of these words...‘wail’ is not	Wail and keen are examples of this
Emotional Reaction -cry - laugh - scream .weep .wail .sob .giggle .chuckle .screech .holler	To scream like a banshee...
To express great , perhaps overwhelming sadness; often conveys the feeling of hopelessness	A classic novel set in the 1800’s; written by a British novelist.